Reminder: March 1, 2010 Deadline for Massachusetts Information Security Regulations Compliance

After several extensions and revisions over the course of 2009, Massachusetts will begin enforcing the March 1, 2010 compliance deadline for its regulations aimed at curbing identity theft—201 CMR 17.00: Standards for the Protection of Personal Information of Residents of the Commonwealth. The regulations contain standards for how personal information of Massachusetts residents must be protected and can be found at www.mass.gov/Eoca/docs/idtheft/201CMR1700reg.pdf. In short, if you own, license, store, maintain or otherwise receive personal information of Massachusetts residents in connection with your business, the time is long overdue to review your information security policy to ensure your company is in full compliance with the regulations by March 1.

The regulations require a company to maintain an information security policy with appropriate safeguards as further set forth in the regulations. Among the additional provisions set forth in the regulations are the requirements that companies take appropriate steps in overseeing third party service providers that handle personal information and encrypt personal information under certain circumstances. The following Cooley Alerts from November 2008, February 2009 and September 2009 provide a more detailed overview of the original regulations and the subsequent changes and delays:

November 2008: www.cooley.com/58855

February 2009: www.cooley.com/58936

September 2009: www.cooley.com/63111

For companies familiar with the FTC's Identity Theft Red Flags Rule¹, 201 CMR 17.00 is similar in that both require written policies intended to make companies address and identify risks aimed at preventing identity theft; both have been subject to repeated delays to allow for sufficient awareness and to address concerns and confusion among companies as to who is covered and what is required; and both are likely to see an end to the delays and the beginning of enforcement in 2010.

If you have any questions regarding any of our Alerts or how the regulations discussed herein could affect your company, please contact one of the attorneys listed below. ■
